Anglais 4

ECTS : 2

Volume horaire : 19.5

Description du contenu de l'enseignement :

This second-year course prepares students for the anglophone professional world while deepening their applied economic English. The first part of the semester focuses on professionalization: writing effective CVs, preparing for job interviews, and understanding norms of conduct and communication in English-speaking workplaces. Students then undertake a research project analyzing current economic trends using the Anthropic Economic Index, building economic vocabulary and data-analysis communication skills in English.

Compétence à acquérir :

By the end of this semester, students will be able to produce professional application materials and perform confidently in an English-language job interview, demonstrating awareness of anglophone workplace norms. They will be able to read, interpret, and discuss economic data and trends using appropriate vocabulary, drawing on real-world datasets such as the Anthropic Economic Index. Students will also be able to present economic analysis clearly and persuasively in English, both orally and in writing.
